

Northwestern Mutual Unveils 2017 Rose Parade® Float Design Highlighting Commitment to Fight Against Childhood Cancer

Whimsical beach-themed float will celebrate childhood cancer survivor's joy in her ability to be a kid again

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 16, 2016 /PRNewswire/ -- Northwestern Mutual, presenting sponsor of the 2017 Rose Bowl Game®, unveiled its float design for the 128th Rose Parade® presented by Honda to showcase the company's commitment to the fight against childhood cancer. The float will honor a mother-daughter duo who fought cancer together, the researcher who developed the treatment that saved both their lives and a dedicated leader from Northwestern Mutual passionate about the fight against childhood cancer.

The theme of this year's parade is "Echoes of Success," which celebrates the selfless contributions of others and how their inspirational gifts affect those around them. Edie, now 7, fought neuroblastoma as an infant, and during her fight, her mom, Emily, was diagnosed with the same disease.

The float called "Waves of Hope" will showcase the care-free joy of being a child and how, for so many children fighting cancer, this joy is only possible because of innovative research and funding. Dr. Yael Mossé of Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, the doctor whose breakthrough treatment saved Edie and Emily's lives, and Steve Guinan, a Northwestern Mutual managing partner in Pennsylvania, will join Edie and her parents on the float.

"Edie's infectious, bubbly persona is a testament to the resilience she demonstrated as she fought – and beat – cancer," said Conrad York, vice president of marketing at Northwestern Mutual. "Northwestern Mutual is honored to have the opportunity to bring Edie's story to life, and shine a light on childhood cancer."

About "Waves of Hope"

The float, created in partnership with Fiesta Parade Floats, epitomizes how character is developed through the selfless contributions of others and how success cannot be achieved alone. The highly-whimsical design celebrates Edie's hope and the joy she feels at being able to be a kid. Highlights include:

The float's centerpiece will be a little girl, decked out in fins and goggles and cannonballing into a cresting ocean wave. Her head will sway from side to side as she takes in the beach scene around her. More than 12,000 iris and 10,000 roses will make up the swirling water.

Surrounding her will be three dolphins made from 300 bunches of lavender sinuata statice, bobbing and weaving through the floral wave.

A happy starfish will spin atop its sand castle as the smiling oyster opens its shell to reveal a large pearl. The crab will move its eyes and wave its claw to the crowd, and the pelican will swivel his head and flap his wings as bubbles fill the air.

Northwestern Mutual has been committed to the fight against childhood cancer since launching its Childhood Cancer Program in 2012. To date, the program has raised more than $12 million, funding over 130,000 hours of research, with the help of its employees and financial representatives nationwide.
