Randolph W. Melville appointed to Northwestern Mutual Board of Trustees

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 29, 2019 /PRNewswire/ -- Northwestern Mutual, a leading financial security company, announced today that Randolph W. Melville has been appointed to serve on the company's board. Melville was the senior vice president and general manager for the Western Division of Frito-Lay North America, the $14 billion convenient foods business unit of PepsiCo, until his retirement in 2017. In that position he was accountable for all aspects of the company's western division performance.

"Randy has a deep understanding of the challenges and opportunities businesses face in sales distribution, finance, human resources and strategic planning, as well as how businesses can better connect with their customers," said Northwestern Mutual Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer John E. Schlifske. "We value his insights as we develop and grow our team of 9,000+ financial professionals across the U.S."

Melville has been widely recognized among industry organizations and trade publications. In 2009, Black Enterprise magazine named him one of the "100 Most Powerful Executives in Corporate America." The Stockdale Center for Ethical Leadership at the U.S. Naval Academy and Harvard Business Review named him a recipient of their inaugural Leadership Excellence Award. Prior to his 20-plus year career at Frito-Lay, Melville served as a senior vice president at Maytag Corporation and held various sales and marketing leadership positions at Proctor & Gamble Distribution Company. Melville currently serves as the lead independent director on the board of Saia, Inc., a publicly-traded trucking and logistics company.

Melville graduated from Princeton University with a bachelor's degree in sociology. His appointment takes effectSeptember 1.
