

Northwestern Mutual Foundation Provides Grants to Foster Arts Education

MILWAUKEE (BUSINESS WIRE), September 29, 2011 - The Northwestern Mutual Foundation – the largest corporate giver in the state of Wisconsin – is announcing $532,000 in arts education grants to benefit 17 best-in-class nonprofit organizations. The grants build upon the Foundation’s ongoing efforts to “Secure Future Generations” and reduce achievement gaps by providing local children with hands-on experiences with the arts.

“Our goal is to help ensure kids in Milwaukee have access to the arts. Research shows that students who participate extensively in arts programs score higher on standardized tests, are more well-rounded and exude more confidence than those not exposed to the arts,” said Deanna Tillisch, Northwestern Mutual Foundation vice president. “By investing in arts education, communities become stronger, more culturally diverse and vibrant for the long term.”

One recipient of a Northwestern Mutual Foundation grant is the Milwaukee Youth Symphony Orchestra (MYSO), which provides training and enrichment in orchestral and ensemble musicianship to children and teens in Southeastern Wisconsin. Funds will help the nonprofit continue to run music education programs such as the Community Partnership Program. The MYSO’s Community Partnership Program imparts financial aid and support services to low-income families to enroll their children in music programs.

“By giving children living in underserved areas the tools and attention to succeed, we see how the gift of music can change lives,” said Fran Richman, executive director, MYSO.

The Milwaukee nonprofit has been awarded the Governor’s Award in Support of the Arts, largely in recognition of their extensive and successful diversity initiatives, as well as UPAF’s Northwestern Mutual Management Excellence Award for having attained the highest management score among UPAF’s numerous groups.
