

Northwestern Mutual Helps Mobilize Hurricane Sandy Recovery Effort with $100,000 Grant

Company strengthens commitment to the American Red Cross in the wake of the storm

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 1, 2012 /PRNewswire/ -- The devastation left behind by Hurricane Sandy has prompted Northwestern Mutual to increase its giving to the American Red Cross' disaster recovery effort. Northwestern Mutual through its Foundation, is announcing a $100,000 grant to the American Red Cross – and is challenging its 5,000 employees and 18,000 members of its network offices to match the gift dollar-for-dollar by donating through its Red Cross website. The charitable donation builds upon a two-year \$500,000 Northwestern Mutual Foundation grant announced in July to strengthen the American Red Cross' Disaster Responder Program.

More than one million of Northwestern Mutual's nearly four million policyowners live in states that were directly affected by Hurricane Sandy, including more than 375,000 clients in New York and New Jersey, the states hit hardest by the natural disaster. Eighteen Northwestern Mutual offices in eight states (Connecticut, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Virginia) and Washington, D.C. closed temporarily during the torrential storm and flooding.

"One in four of our clients and their families were disrupted by this disaster. Mobilizing the recovery effort is deeply personal for us," said John E. Schlifske, Northwestern Mutual chairman and chief executive officer. "This is a time for strong companies and caring individuals to do the right thing and help people who have urgent needs."

Northwestern Mutual is also urging its employees to participate in the company's upcoming blood drives, helping to stem shortfalls caused by the storm-related cancelation of 100 planned American Red Cross blood drives across the Mid-Atlantic U.S.

About the American Red Cross

The American Red Cross shelters, feeds and counsels victims of disasters. The Red Cross is a charitable organization -- not a government agency -- and depends on volunteers and the generosity of the American public to perform its humanitarian mission.
