"I'd like to extend my congratulations to Anthony Colantonio on a job well done for his picks in the Northwestern Mutual men's lacrosse bracket contest," said Conrad York, vice president of marketing at Northwestern Mutual. "We're proud to support the hard work and dedication of the players, coaches and fans of lacrosse."

Earlier in May, Northwestern Mutual gave fans the opportunity to fill out their brackets to predict the winners of the 2013 NCAA Division I Men's Lacrosse Championship. The contest was the third in a series by the NCAA partner to extend the excitement normally associated with Division I men's basketball to other key championships.

"I was surprised and excited to see that Northwestern Mutual was hosting a lacrosse bracket contest," said Colantonio. "I think the popularity of the sport is starting to spread, and the bracket contest is a great opportunity to get friends and family together to watch the games."

Colantonio, who plans to share his winnings by purchasing apparel for his family, is a long-time lacrosse fan. His roots began as a senior at North Penn High School and continued through his first year at Lehigh University, where he played on the club team. Though he was disappointed his alma mater was knocked out in the first round, Colantonio took pride in accurately picking Duke over Syracuse in the finals.

Currently, fans can sign up for the NCAA Men's College World Series® bracket contest on Facebook.
