

Northwestern Mutual On Pace to Break Recruiting Record for Second Consecutive Year

Company recruits 1,100 financial representatives across the country so far in 2013, up 8% over the same time last year

MILWAUKEE, July 10, 2013 /PRNewswire/ -- While the job market continues to be challenging, Northwestern Mutual is on pace to surpass its largest recruiting goal in the company's 156-year history. The company announced today that, year-to-date, it has recruited more than 1,100 financial representatives across the country – a more than 8% increase from 2012 – and nearly 3,000 financial representative interns. In January, the company announced its most aggressive recruiting effort as it sought to recruit more than 5,500 financial professionals.

Today's announcement comes on the heels of last week's release of the June unemployment figures from the Department of Labor that showed that the national unemployment rate stayed steady at 7.6%.

"Our aggressive recruiting efforts stand out in today's challenging economy, where other companies are struggling to find the resources to offer more employment," said Steve Mannebach, vice president – field growth and development at Northwestern Mutual.

This year marks the second consecutive year that Northwestern Mutual has increased its recruiting goals to record levels. In 2012, the company's efforts were a success as it surpassed its recruiting goal of 5,000 financial professionals.

Mannebach also attributes the growth of Northwestern Mutual's network of financial representatives to the company's financial strength and its industry-leading dividends, which the company recently announced would total more than \$5 billion in 2013.ⁱ

Strong Need for Financial Planning

"We're seeing a strong demand nationwide for our holistic planning approach, and our recruiting goals are a direct result of that," said Mannebach.

Earlier this year, Northwestern Mutual released findings from the company's 2013 Planning & Progress Study, showing that 63% of Americans believe their overall financial planning needs improvement and 50% have no plan in place.

"These findings reinforce that Americans need to place a greater emphasis on developing a comprehensive financial plan and work with professionals to help them stay on track for long-term financial security," said Mannebach. "For a professional with the right background considering a new career, now is good time to look into the world of financial planning."

Career Changers

Northwestern Mutual expects that more than half of its new financial representatives this year will be professionals who believe they have hit a ceiling in their current career and are looking for an opportunity to grow.

"We have seen a huge surge in 'career changers' in our recruitment efforts, as they are migrating over for various reasons, whether it be a lack of growth in their current position, the economy or a cap on income," said Mannebach. "Regardless of their background, we have seen that many bring the same core skills needed to succeed, ensuring they continue their strong track record in this industry."
