Fans can purchase their piece of the championship floor by visiting GoCards.com/floor. There they can choose from three different sizes of souvenir floor pieces ranging in price from $99.99-$499.99. University of Louisville Head Coach Rick Pitino will autograph 1,000 of the larger pieces.

Proceeds from the sale will specifically help support research being conducted by a team led by Kenneth Lucas, M.D., chief of Pediatric Hematology/Oncology at Kosair Children's Hospital and division chief of Pediatric Hematology-Oncology and Stem Cell Transplantation for the University of Louisville Department of Pediatrics.

"It is exciting to get this effort underway to raise funds for the fight against pediatric cancer," said President of the Northwestern Mutual Foundation John Kordsmeier. "We're proud to support the communities that we serve, and donating the floor in order to raise money for cancer research is a win for everyone involved."

The company mounted a similar effort in 2012 after the University of Kentucky won the national basketball championship, raising more than $200,000 to help the fight against pediatric cancer.

"Northwestern Mutual's support continues to provide much needed funds to work on ground-breaking research that can help thousands of children," said Thomas D. Kmetz, division president of Women's and Children's services and president, Kosair Children's Hospital. "We're very appreciative that they've stepped up again to help fight pediatric cancer."

The company also donated the center court logo portion of the floor to the University of Louisville to hang in the KFC Yum! Center.

"As exciting as it was for us to win the national championship this year, it's also exciting to be part of this effort to raise money for cancer research," said Pitino. "It's all about giving back to the community, and Northwestern Mutual is providing a great example of how to be a good corporate citizen."

Since 2012, the Northwestern Mutual Foundation in addition to Northwestern Mutual employees, financial representatives and community supporters have contributed $1.5 million in the fight against childhood cancer, which includes helping more than 200 families travel and stay together during their children's cancer treatments and funding nearly 13,000 hours of critical research projects.
